Alexander Skarsgård and Florence Pugh as Becker and Charlie

The Spy who loved me

Alexander Skarsgård and Florence Pugh find romance in BBC1's new John le Carré spy drama

NEW DRAMA

The Little Drummer Girl

Sunday, BBC1 HD, 9pm

Becker and his boss Kurtz recruit actress Charlie

Alexander Skarsgård strolls through the lobby of University College London and flops down on a sofa. 'How's it going?' he asks breezily with a smile.

The Big Little Lies star has just finished filming a scene for the BBC's latest John le Carré adaptation and we've been invited on set to get the lowdown on the six-part espionage thriller.

Following the success of BBC1's The Night Manager – which was also inspired by the spy novelist's work – this new drama has been eagerly anticipated, and while The Little Drummer Girl has a different tone to its predecessor, in Skarsgård it has a leading man to rival The Night Manager's Tom Hiddleston.

Set in 1979, the story follows brilliant young actress Charlie (Florence Pugh) as she strikes up an acquaintance with an intriguing stranger while on holiday. The man turns out to be an Israeli intelligence officer, Becker (Skarsgård), who entangles her in a high-stakes plot orchestrated by spymaster Kurtz (Michael Shannon).

We sat down for a chat with Skarsgård to find out more…

What made you want to be involved in this project? Being in a John le Carré adaptation was a very exciting prospect. I was brought up on his work, because my father [Hollywood star Stellan Skarsgård] absolutely loved his books. When I told him I was doing this he took me out to dinner and wouldn't stop talking about it! He met le Carré when he was filming Our Kind of Traitor a couple of years ago and says he's a fascinating man.

What can you tell us about your character, Becker? He's an Israeli intelligence officer operating out of Berlin, who's been on the tail of an elusive Palestinian terrorist cell, under the control of a man named Khalil, for many years. When the terrorists bomb an Israeli diplomat at the start of the first episode he and his superior, Kurtz, hatch a plan to finally catch them.

How does Florence Pugh's character, Charlie, get involved? They've been watching Charlie and see she has a talent for connecting with people, which is why Becker thinks she's perfect for the job – even though she doesn't know anything about espionage. She doesn't warm to him at first, but she finds him mysterious and there's definitely a spark between them.

How much knowledge about this world did you have before taking on the role? I didn't know much about espionage, but I did my national service in Sweden in an anti-sabotage unit and our job was to secure the islands outside Stockholm from potential threats. Once I had to spend four days on lookout in a tent that was buried under a pile of moss. That was tough.

Did you have fun during filming? Yeah, it was great fun and we did so much travelling – we filmed in over 100 locations across Europe. We even did a night shoot at the Acropolis in Greece, which was unbelievable. I love working in London because it's not as cold as Stockholm, which is where I'm from, and milder than New York, which is where I live now. I love the British sense of humour because you guys can laugh at yourselves. Alan Partridge is my comedic god. I'd love to do a cameo if Steve Coogan did another series.

Skarsgård plays Israeli spy Becker

> 'I'm not sure Britain is ready for a Swedish Bond!'
> ALEXANDER SKARSGÅRD

Were you surprised by the reaction to Big Little Lies? I was shooting a movie in the middle of nowhere when it was on TV, so I got a bit of a shock when I came back to civilisation. I didn't realise how much people hated me! I was considering going back to the woods. The line between fiction and reality is a bit blurred for some people, even though they know you were just playing a part they still feel angry and accuse me of stuff my character did.

Was it fun playing a villain in that? It was a very gratifying experience and it's amazing to be a part of something that people enjoyed so much. It was so well-written, because my character, Perry, seemed like the perfect family man from the outside and then it just switched. To work with Nicole Kidman was just a dream, especially as their relationship became darker. I'm really excited about the second series because Meryl Streep is playing Perry's mother.

There were rumours that Tom Hiddleston would be the next Bond after The Night Manager… I'm not sure Britain is ready for a Swedish Bond! Besides, I've done some intense stuff over the last few years, so I feel like doing a comedy. People quote my line from the film Zoolander – 'Orange Mocha Frappuccinos!' – at me all the time, so maybe I could do a spin-off!

A FAMILY AFFAIR

John le Carré's eldest son, Simon Cornwell, was an executive producer on The Little Drummer Girl, after he took a similar role on The Night Manager.

'I was thrilled by the reception The Night Manager got and I think this is just as exciting,' he says. 'It's an extraordinary spy story. The book was ahead of its time, because it has such a strong female lead and we're so lucky to have such a great cast. Alexander is already a big star, Florence soon will be, and Michael is just brilliant.

John le Carré behind the scenes on set

'My father takes a lot of interest in these adaptations. He came round to my house and we watched the first episode of The Night Manager with a bottle of wine. He even had a small cameo in that, but you'll have to wait and see if he's in this series!'

Goodbye Hollywood

Can Ray Donovan make a fresh start in New York after reaching rock bottom?

NEW DRAMA
Ray Donovan
Wednesday, Sky Atlantic HD, 9pm

When we last saw him in the final moments of season five, Hollywood fixer Ray Donovan tried to end it all. Haunted by visions of his dead wife Abby, and with his business in ruins, Ray had just murdered movie executive Doug Landry in New York before throwing himself into the East River.

Yet, fans will be relieved to learn that Ray (Liev Schreiber) is alive and kicking, after he is pulled from the water by a cop, Mac (Domenick Lombardozzi), as the show returns this week.

Schreiber with co-star Domenick Lombardozzi

STILL WATERS

Mac befriends Ray and introduces him to the Staten Island Police Department, and Ray decides to make a fresh start in New York.

'It's a whole different world for Ray, and it's going to be a very different show,' says showrunner David Hollander. 'We are not just going to transplant Ray from LA to New York. We get to dig down deep and really look at how it feels to be Ray at this age, at this time, and in this city.'

Schreiber, 51, says he still enjoys playing Ray, but finds it hard to leave the character behind at the end of the day.

'I love Ray's stoicism and masculinity, but he is an injured child and a rough character to play,' says Schreiber. 'The guy's carrying a lot of tension, but he rarely, rarely expresses it. I find meditation helps me put him to the back of my mind. It's really important to try to find a ritual where I can put work behind me.'

Having spent his early career in New York, where he mainly acted in Shakespeare plays on stage, Schreiber is looking forward to filming in the Big Apple, especially as his two sons with ex-wife Naomi Watts live in the city.

'Ray's a little out of sorts in New York , but I'm very much at home,' he says. 'It's going to be exciting. The move will keep us on our toes, and after five seasons, the show could use a shot in the arm.'

Reece Shearsmith and Steve Pemberton prepare for a live instalment

Inside

LIVE COMEDY
Inside No. 9 Live
Sunday, BBC2 HD, 10pm

It takes a lot of guts to write and star in a live TV episode, but it's no surprise that Reece Shearsmith and Steve Pemberton would willingly agree to such an ordeal.

The ingenious creators of brilliant anthology series Inside No. 9 have already written an episode in iambic pentameter, done another as silent comedy and set one inside a wardrobe – so going live should be a breeze.

While we eagerly await a fifth series, the pair are giving us a Halloween treat with a one-off live episode. Anything could happen, of course, but we're promised a spooky tale, packed with their inimitable mix of humour and horror.

We sat down with the duo to hear all about the special…

What can you tell us about this live episode?

Pemberton It's a spooky story set in the present. I play a man called Arthur Flitwick, who is walking home one night when he finds an old mobile phone in a graveyard. He takes with him and tries to find out who it belongs to, which kicks off the whole story.

Shearsmith I play the local vicar, Reverend Neil, and we have one guest star, Stephanie Cole, who plays Moira, a member of the congregation. She gets involved

'It's going to be a really exciting evening. Let's hope it's scary in the right way!'
STEVE PEMBERTON

Halloween

trying to find the owner of the phone. We have always wanted to work with Stephanie. We're delighted to have her on this particularly special episode. This one is definitely in the horror genre, but it's funny, too.

Why did you decide to go live?

Pemberton It was the BBC's suggestion to do a live episode, and when someone puts that challenge down, it's impossible for us to ignore. We love setting ourselves these kinds of challenges.

Shearsmith We are always striving to do storytelling in a different way and we thought it would make a nice event. It should just be a good Inside No. 9 episode that happens to be live.

Are you nervous about everything being all right on the night?

Pemberton There will be nerves – you can't stop the adrenaline. We've never done anything like this before and there's just one chance to get it right. You've got to put it out of your head that people around the country will be watching. It's crazy if you think about it.

Shearsmith I'm not that nervous, maybe that's wrong! I think we'll be all right as long as we rehearse enough. It's just like a play and we've been doing the live tour of The League of Gentlemen for months. We'll watch each other's backs and muddle through if anything goes wrong. We've got to embrace it, do the scenes and hope for the best.

Stephanie Cole

Are there any scenes you are worried about?

Pemberton A couple of bits are very technically challenging, but we've gone through it in our heads and we think it's going to go well. It's going to be a really exciting evening. Let's hope it's scary in the right way!

Are you big fans of Halloween?

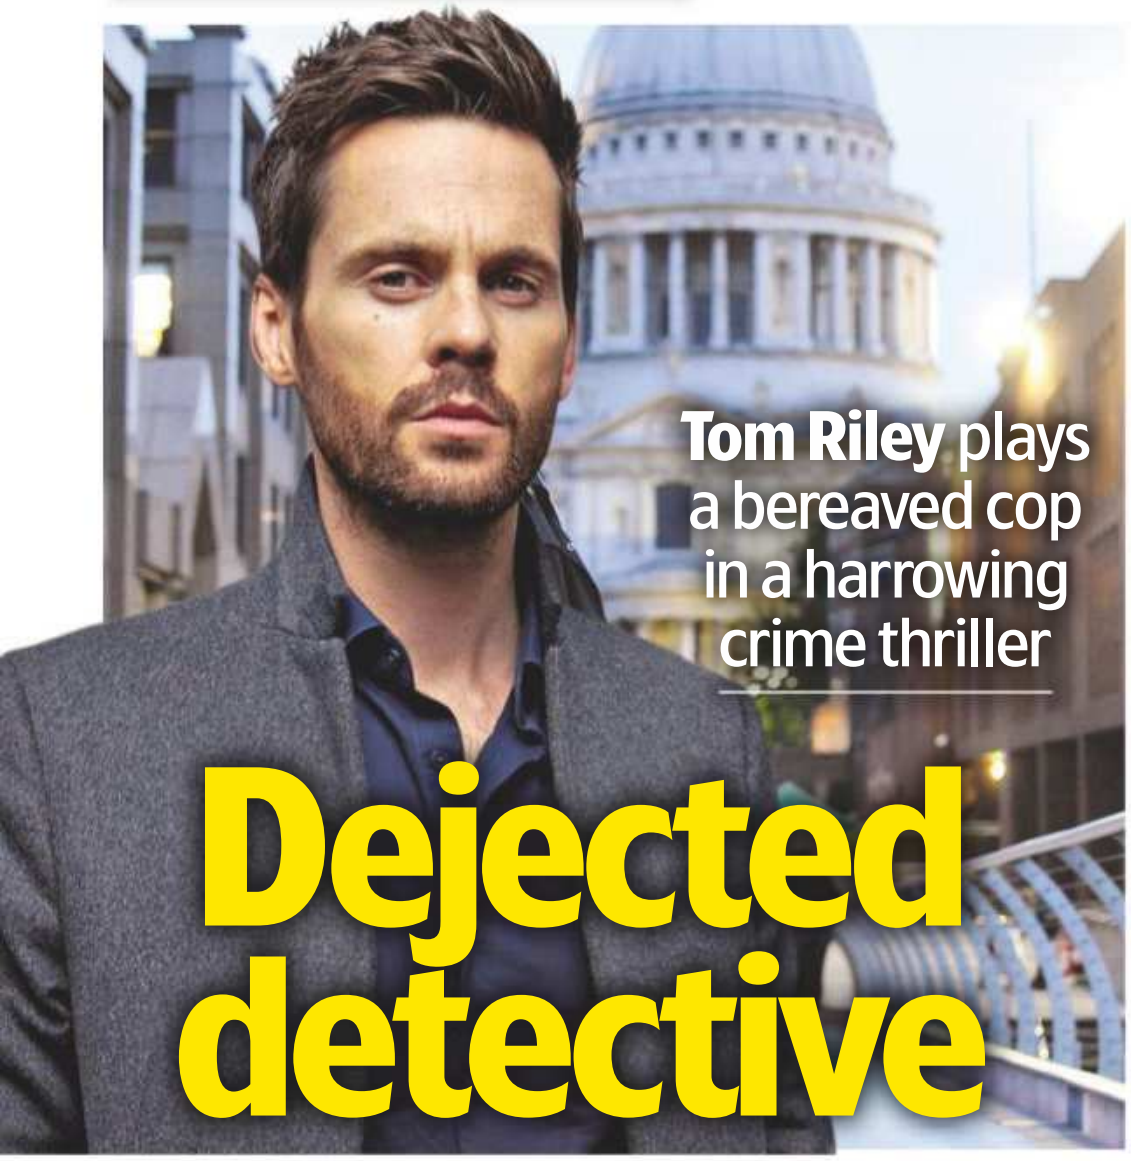
Shearsmith Oh yes, I'd have it every day of the year if I could. I love Halloween – doing this special makes me feel like I've died and gone to heaven! I have had Halloween parties in the past and I often go to Jonathan Ross' party – he puts on the kind of bash you see in films.

Have you had any spooky experiences of your own?

Pemberton For Reece's birthday, I bought him a haunted-house experience near to where we both live. We spent about seven hours at the house through the night, but nothing happened!

Shearsmith The League of Gentlemen team did a ghost vigil for Radio 4 once. It was in a reputedly haunted house in Bristol. There were some spooky goings-on but I think it was all in our minds.

Pemberton It was just Mark Gatiss tapping under the table!



Tom Riley plays a bereaved cop in a harrowing crime thriller

Dejected detective

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Dark Heart

Wednesday, Thursday, ITV HD, 9pm

Troubled cops aren't exactly new in TV crime dramas, but Dark Heart's DI Will 'Staffe' Wagstaffe, played by Tom Riley, is contending with more disturbing baggage than most.

The six-part series, penned by Unforgotten's Chris Lang, follows the talented but tortured London cop as he deals with a range of demanding cases, while also living under the shadow of his parents' unsolved murder when he was a teenager.

'It's as much about Staffe's personal journey as the cases,' explains Riley. 'His parents' murder is an ongoing mystery.

'They were killed in a way that implies their murder was part of something else, and everything he does is based around the idea that eventually something will make sense of it.'

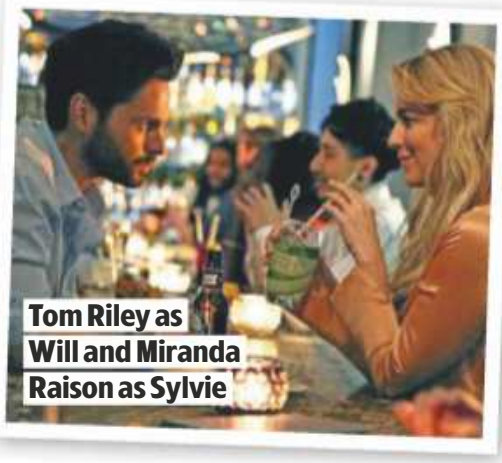
CHALLENGING CASES

This week's two-part case is certainly a gritty affair and focuses on attacks on several suspected paedophiles who have evaded justice. Later investigations involve a chilling medical mystery and the bizarre death of an online porn star.

'There's a danger that manifests itself over the series,' says Riley, 37. 'Also, the monsters he's chasing begin to inform him as a person, so his grip on morality is loose.'

PERSONAL PROBLEMS

At work, Staffe's sidekick DC Josie Chancellor (Bodyguard's Anjli Mohindra) provides solid support. However, his personal relationships with sister Juliette (Charlotte Riley) and on-off girlfriend Sylvie (Miranda Raison) are more rocky.



Tom Riley as Will and Miranda Raison as Sylvie

'Staffe finds interpersonal relationships annoying, but he's trying to maintain things with Sylvie,' says Riley, who is best known for his roles in Da Vinci's Demons and Monroe. 'He and Juliette rub each other up the wrong way. They're the only people who can understand what the other one is going through, and yet they have classic sibling rivalry.'

The London backdrop is important, but shooting in the capital proved to be a challenge.

'We wanted to show the side of London you don't often see on TV,' says Riley. 'But it's hard to shoot in central London, because you can't put the trucks anywhere. We had to get changed in pub bathrooms!'

LIFE ★ after ★ FRANK

NEW DRAMA

House of Cards

Available from Fri 2 Nov, Netflix

The brilliant, award-winning political drama House of Cards returns for its sixth and final season this week with one major talking point – the absence of Kevin Spacey, who was fired from his role as murderous ex-US President Frank Underwood following allegations of sexual misconduct.

Spacey's sacking means that Robin Wright, who plays Frank's equally ruthless wife, Claire, takes centre stage – especially after season five ended with Frank resigning from the Oval Office and handing power to Claire, who emerged from her husband's shadow as the first female President.

As always, the storyline for the final run is being kept firmly under wraps, though we do know from the show's trailer that Frank has died between seasons and has been denied a burial fit for a former President.

Meanwhile, Oscar nominees Diane Lane and Greg Kinnear join the cast as Annette and Bill Shepherd, siblings who own an industrial conglomerate. The duo are a powerful force in American politics and have ambitions for their son Duncan, played by American Horror Story's Cody Fern.

Here, Wright looks back at the show's remarkable success...

Greg Kinnear, Diane Lane and Cody Fern as the Shepherd family

Robin Wright takes centre stage in House of Cards

I can't reveal how House of Cards ends, but it's pretty wild... I mean, we're doing an opera – and we went operatic! I don't know how much more we could have topped ourselves. You'll be surprised.

I'm proud of our work on the show... I loved the people I worked with. We had such a tight bond. When we wrapped, it was bittersweet. There were tears and jumping for joy that we got to bring the show to fruition. Remember, when we started, people said it wouldn't last more than two or three seasons.

We were all surprised and ultimately saddened [by Kevin Spacey's sacking]... But we forged ahead and were so glad that we could complete the series as planned.

I turned down the role at first... I didn't want to play 'the wife'. But the producers told me this would be different – that I would be working with them to create the character.

I based Claire on an American eagle... I saw it on National Geographic, and observed how it flew higher than everybody else and looked down and calculated strategy. It helped so much in believing that your wingspan is broader than everybody else's and you know how to attack your prey without being caught.

Unlike Claire, I'm a goofball.... For example, she barely moves, which is so not me. I never stop moving, which makes it hard to play her. I have to sit up straight and hold my hands just so.

Donald Trump is trumping us... After all this time doing the show I am shocked every morning I wake up and hear his latest announcements. He has taken all our good ideas. How do you beat that?

He's horrified to think that he might lose her, and furious when he discovers that Ken knew about the illness and never said anything. He's further rocked when Sinead then admits she's refused treatment, as she doesn't want to risk harming their unborn baby.

Back at the Barlows', Peter stands up for Ken when Daniel lays into the pensioner, pointing out that their father is not to blame for Sinead's illness, and nor should he be vilified for respecting her request for privacy over the matter.

Much to Daniel's relief, Sinead later agrees to undergo a course of mild chemotherapy that won't affect the baby. But she's terrified during her first session, and when the hospital calls her to make a second appointment, she secretly lies that she can't make it. Is Sinead about to make the ultimate sacrifice for her unborn child?

Irons in the fire

Max Irons plays a CIA analyst on the run after uncovering a conspiracy...

NEW DRAMA
Condor
Monday, Universal HD, 9pm

In the new espionage thriller Condor, which starts with a double bill on Universal this week, Max Irons plays young CIA analyst Joe Turner, who inadvertently uncovers a far-reaching conspiracy and is forced to go on the run.

The 10-part series is an updated adaptation of James Grady's novel Six Days of the Condor, which was made into a classic 1975 film starring Robert Redford.

Although Redford is a tough act to follow, Irons – who can also be seen in BBC1's The Little Drummer Girl this week – reckons the series is able to go deeper into the story than the movie could.

'The film was just two hours. But we have 10 hours to explore what motivates the characters, and we give multiple points of view, not just Joe's,' he says.

Joe is doing routine analytical work until his uncle, high-ranking CIA official Bob Partridge, reveals that an anti-terrorism algorithm that Joe created has flagged up a potential terrorist attack involving the release of a modern-day plague at a packed US football stadium.

The attack is thwarted, and Bob asks Joe and his fellow analysts to find out who the terrorist worked for. But then Joe stumbles across something that suggests the planned attack was not all it seems.

ONE STEP AHEAD

With someone wanting Joe and his colleagues silenced, the rest of his office is gunned down, while Joe escapes and goes on the run. As he tries to keep one step ahead of assassin Gabrielle Joubert (Leem Lubany), Joe has to work out who is behind the conspiracy.

'Joe is not an action hero,' says Irons. 'He does a lot of running, but it's never towards the fight. He's an analyst. If he's comparable to anyone, it's Edward Snowden [the CIA computer expert who leaked classified information] – that's his skill set.'

Irons, the son of actors Jeremy Irons and Sinéad Cusack, is part of a stellar cast that includes Oscar winners William Hurt, who plays Bob, and Mira Sorvino, who plays a CIA investigator, while Trust's Brendan Fraser is a mercenary.

Irons admits that all the running his character does did not come naturally. 'Running is so boring and I was doing it in flat shoes – not even trainers,' he winces. 'You get very sore after two days of that!'

Doctor Who

1998

The American actor is best known for playing Mr Big, Sarah Jessica Parker's love interest in Sex and the City, from 1998 to 2004, reprising the role in two movies. Born in Wisconsin, he's also famous for his roles as Detective Mike Logan in Law & Order, scandal-hit husband Peter Florrick in The Good Wife, and an abduction specialist FBI agent in Universal's Gone.

HIS NEW ROLE

The 63-year-old makes a cameo appearance in this week's Doctor Who, playing brash millionaire Jack Robertson. His business practices come under suspicion when giant spiders overrun his brand-new luxury hotel on the outskirts of Sheffield, but he's more worried about bad publicity ahead of his run for President in the 2020 elections. Unfortunately, he and the Doctor don't see eye-to-eye, especially as Robertson believes in shooting first and asking questions later...

Mission to Mars

NEW DRAMA

The First

Thursday, C4 HD, 9pm

The next milestone in human space endeavour, landing on Mars, feels within touching distance, but what sacrifices will need to be made before we reach the Red Planet?

That's the question at the heart of C4's epic new space drama The First, in which two-time Oscar-winning actor Sean Penn plays a charismatic, out-of-favour astronaut, Tom Hagerty. It's the year 2031 and as we join the action, a manned rocket is about to launch into space. But Hagerty has been kicked off the mission at the last minute, for reasons we don't yet understand. The woman responsible for his dismissal is the CEO of the contractor running the Mars project, Laz Ingram (Natascha McElhone).

'Tom was originally commander of the ship, until she tells him he can't go on the mission,' says McElhone. 'But, as it transpires, she will have to go back to him, cap in hand. She will need his help. You'll see them rebuilding their broken professional relationship.'

The eight-part series was created by House of Cards showrunner Beau Willimon and explores the human need to venture into the undiscovered universe.

AIMING HIGH

'It's a question at the very heart of the show,' he says. 'Apart from Mars being important for science and the advancement of technology, I think there is a deeper need for all of our characters, another reason they want to get there. It's part of their story as human beings.'

'For Laz, it's the way her brain is built. What's around her is so much less interesting than climbing a ladder into the unknown,' adds McElhone. 'She wants to stretch herself to the absolute limit. She's not daunted by it and only sees failure as an impetus to go further.'

STAR ROLE

Alongside a compelling narrative, The First is a visually stunning series. The production team spent a whole year carefully working out a detailed plan of what technology might look like in 13 years' time, and the actors also had the opportunity to consult some real astronauts, as well as visiting NASA's Kennedy Space Center.

'We didn't want anything to be distracting or look like it had come from Star Trek. It was about what real people would use in the near future, and we worked with Land Rover to think of every aspect of what Laz's car might look like in the 2030s,' says Willimon.

The production team also worked with Chris Hadfield, the first Canadian to walk in space. 'He's a real character – super knowledgeable and passionate. He was very hard on us if we got something wrong, but he was really pleased with the show in the end – and if we're able to satisfy him that's a definite success.'

Julia Roberts is caught up in a military mystery in Amazon Prime's Hitchcock-style thriller

prime Homecoming

NEW Genre: Thriller Available: Friday 2 November Episodes: 10
TVSW says: Sinister and compelling

With an Oscar on her mantelpiece and dozens of great movies to her name, from Pretty Woman to Notting Hill, Julia Roberts has her pick of projects. So even though it's fashionable for film stars to turn up on TV these days, it's still a coup for Amazon Prime Video to secure her talents for its eerie new thriller.

Roberts, who turns 51 this week, stars in Homecoming, directed by Mr Robot creator Sam Esmail and already commissioned for a second season. She plays Heidi Bergman, a case worker at a government facility that helps soldiers reacclimatise to public life when they return home from military action.

But Heidi grows alarmed when her boss Colin (Bobby Cannavale) seems less concerned with their patients' well-being than the chance to mine valuable data from their traumatic experiences.

The episodes flit between two timelines. As we skip forward we see Heidi, after leaving the institute, as a waitress. And a suspicious Department of Defense employee (Shea Whigham) digs into the institute's history and confronts Heidi about it.

We caught up with Roberts in London to hear more about her first major TV role...

How does TV compare with films? It's not dissimilar. A lot of TV shows have a different director for every episode, but I requested to have Sam for the whole shoot.

Why did you want to be in Homecoming? The story is so complex and fascinating. It's based on a podcast, which I loved. Heidi is a well-intentioned character and I spent time trying to understand what it is that makes her powerful and her vulnerabilities. It was like playing two characters because of the two timelines. I had a number of wig fittings.

You are very convincing as a psychotherapist... Thank you. I like to think I have a talent for the profession. In my circle of friends, I am considered one of the main advisors. And I take that role very honourably.

Sissy Spacek plays your mother, Ellen. Did you enjoy working together? I'm in love with Sissy! I've known her since I was 13 so she might as well be my mother. I've also reunited with Dermot Mulroney on this. Sam likes My Best Friend's Wedding and it was his dream to get us back together.

What was the biggest challenge? It took a lot of brainpower because there were pages and pages to learn. When I first got the script I shed a couple of tears. My husband said he had never seen me work so hard. TV is not for the faint-hearted.

Do you watch much TV? Peaky Blinders has knockout production values, and I keep talking about Fleabag but I think I'm last to the party with that one. I need to check out Killing Eve, too. My all-time favourite series is Happy Days.

This year marks the 30th anniversary of your first hit movie, Mystic Pizza. How much have you changed? It might be 30 years later and I'm probably wearing a nicer blouse, but I'm still the same girl. That film has been deeply meaningful to me and I love it as much now as I did then.

Portillo's Hidden History of Britain

Friday, Channel 5 HD, 9pm

Surgical spirit

Michael Portillo unlocks the fascinating history behind an abandoned hospital where plastic surgery was born

Plastic surgeon Harold Gillies

Built in 1880 in the Hampshire countryside, the Cambridge Military Hospital is still an imposing and impressive building – despite standing abandoned.

During World War One, it was a hub of activity where thousands of badly injured soldiers were brought back from the battlefields. And it was here that pioneering reconstructive surgery took place and medical history was made.

'Large numbers of soldiers with devastating facial injuries were brought to the hospital,' explains former-politician-turned-presenter Michael Portillo, who returns with a new five-part series to reveal the intriguing history behind some of Britain's long-abandoned locations.

A PIONEERING IDEA

Injured soldiers suffering severe disfigurement had previously been given masks to cover their scars, but military surgeon Harold Gillies, working at the hospital, found this unsatisfactory.

'Gillies was a global pioneer,' explains Portillo. 'The masks were cumbersome and uncomfortable. He thought carefully about how you could repair human faces by using skin tissue to replace the tissue that was missing.'

Gillies conceived and developed the 'tubed pedicle' procedure, which involved taking a piece of flesh from one part of the body and transporting it to the damaged area over the course of several weeks to keep the tissue alive.

LIFE-CHANGING RESULTS

'The idea that you could rebuild a nose, a cheek or a jaw is incredible,' says Portillo, who watches military surgeon Colonel Alan Kay demonstrate the technique on the skin of a dead pig.

'Gillies recorded every step of the surgery with pictures and it was incredibly uplifting to see the photographs of the end results. There's no doubt he completely transformed people's lives.'

Cambridge Military Hospital

Later, in 1951, Gillies used this pioneering technique to perform the first-ever sex-reassignment surgery in Britain on Robert Cowell, a racing driver, former Spitfire pilot and father of two.

'Robert became Roberta,' says Portillo. 'You can imagine how sensationalised the story was, and how brave it was for Cowell to go through with something that had never been done before.'

NEW HISTORY

Hitler's Holocaust Railways with Chris Tarrant

Sunday, Channel 5 HD, 9pm

Chris Tarrant explores how Hitler's trains played a horrifying role in the Nazis' Final Solution in Channel 5's feature-length documentary.

Beginning in Nuremberg, where the Nazis shipped in thousands of supporters for Hitler's massive open-air rallies, Tarrant travels across Europe to see how the Third Reich developed a huge railway infrastructure that ultimately led to the mass transport of Jewish families to the death camps.

We asked Tarrant to tell us more…

We started off in Nuremberg where Hitler held his rallies...

That's where the Nazis got the idea of how to transport tens of thousands of people by train. I asked one German historian about the importance of the railways and he said: 'Without the railways there would have been no World War Two, and certainly no Holocaust.'

I met Holocaust survivor Arek Hersh, who is like the cat with nine lives... His parents were murdered when he was eight, and he was the only survivor of an orphanage where hundreds died. At 14, he was herded into a cramped cattle truck and transported from the ghetto in Lodz, Poland to Auschwitz.

Arek was the only survivor I met who would go back to Auschwitz with me... I stood with him in a cattle truck as he described how people died or were thrown out the door. It was incredibly sad. The only thing Arek wouldn't do was go into a gas chamber. I went in and it was horrible. It was a big concrete block with artificial shower heads. There were scratch marks on the wall where people had been desperately fighting for air. When I came out I thought I was going to be sick.

We should always educate our children about the Holocaust... There is a danger that schools these days don't teach World War Two history. I thought I knew a lot about the subject before making the programme, but it turned out there was so much I didn't know.

Daniel just couldn't get Vicky out of his head

Daniel Day-Lewis takes his leave from the film world with a story of romance and high fashion

Phantom Thread

COMEDY DRAMA

Sunday, Sky Premiere HD, 11.15am & 8pm ★★★★★

An exquisite weave of gothic romance and haute couture comedy, director Paul Thomas Anderson's spellbinding movie traces the battle of wills between an ultra-perfectionist dressmaker in glamorous 1950s London and the young woman who serves as his mistress, model and muse. The frocks are fabulous; and so are the movie's leads.

Acting in what he says is his last film, Daniel Day-Lewis is in immaculate form as the exacting designer. Yet Luxembourg actress Vicky Krieps, like the deceptively strong-willed character she plays, proves more than a match for her illustrious co-star.

Day-Lewis's Reynolds Woodcock, imperious head of a pre-eminent Mayfair fashion house, dresses the crème de la crème of high society – everyone from English heiresses to American socialites and European princesses.

His older sister Cyril, played with chilly briskness by Lesley Manville, ensures that his life and work run smoothly – and that his girlfriends never outstay their welcome. So when Reynolds woos Krieps' young waitress Alma, an orphaned immigrant, no one expects her role as a live-in lover to last very long. Alma, however, turns out to be far more tenacious than she looks…

A story of a beautiful young woman taming a powerful older man has more than a hint of fable about it (just think of Bluebeard or Beauty and the Beast), not to mention a touch of Hitchcock's 1940 adaptation of Rebecca. But there is droll social comedy here as well, accompanied by an atmosphere of swooning luxury.

Costume designer Mark Bridges deservedly scooped an Oscar, although Day-Lewis – an Oscar winner when he last worked with Anderson on 2007's There Will Be Blood – had to settle for a nomination. All the same, this sumptuous, dazzling film is perfect for him to bow out on. 2017, 15, 130MIN

British director Steve McQueen's Oscar-winning historical drama tackles America's primal sin of slavery with unflinching honesty. Based on the memoir of Solomon Northup, a free-born man sold into slavery in the pre-Civil War South, the film shows how slavery warped the minds of slave and master alike. Ultimately, though, it is a tale of survival, as Chiwetel Ejiofor's terrific lead performance, which embodies Northup's dignity and intelligence as well as his suffering, makes emphatically clear. 2013, 15, 134MIN

Quentin Tarantino worked on the script for this World War Two thriller for more than a decade, and it proved to be one of his most successful movies both critically and at the box office. Brad Pitt gets top billing for his over-the-top turn as the leader of a bunch of wartime Jewish-American soldiers on a mission to kill and scalp any Nazis who cross their path. But the film's stand-out star is Christoph Waltz, whose silkily menacing Oscar-winning performance as a Nazi colonel is memorably chilling. 2009, 18, 153MIN

The Bookshop
Penelope Fitzgerald's 1978 novel gets a classy adaptation starring Emily Mortimer as a grieving young widow in 1950s England who opens up the first bookshop in a fusty seaside town. Patricia Clarkson and Bill Nighy also feature in this quietly melancholy tale which, though not exactly a cinematic page-turner, is a lot less cosy than it first appears. PG, 113MIN

Dusty & Me
In 1977 Yorkshire, 18-year-old geeky misfit Derek 'Dusty' Springfield (Luke Newberry), a brainy swot at odds with his working-class family, befriends a neglected greyhound and finds a way to connect with his community – and the girl of his dreams (Genevieve Gaunt). This feelgood British comedy paints its characters in broad, colourful strokes, making it an enjoyably genial romp. 12, 94MIN

The Happy Prince
Rupert Everett makes a flamboyant splash as writer, director and star of a melancholy and tragic biopic of Oscar Wilde in his final years of disgrace and destitution. He makes an ideal Wilde and delivers some of the author's choicest bon mots with delicious relish. Colin Firth, Emily Watson and Tom Wilkinson all turn in stalwart performances in support. 15, 105MIN

McQueen
This fascinating documentary celebrates the genius of the late, great Alexander McQueen, the East End bad boy who took the fashion world by storm in the 1990s and 2000s. Bursting at the seams with stunning archive footage and interviews, the film explores McQueen's troubled personal life and the sources of his creativity, before his tragic suicide in 2010. 15, 111MIN

CRIME THRILLER

Sicario 2: Soldado

Available from Monday ★★★

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

Emily Blunt's conflicted FBI agent is missing from this sequel to 2015's Sicario – along with most of the queasy suspense that made the first film so electrifying. Josh Brolin's laid-back CIA black ops man and Benicio Del Toro's grim assassin do return in a plot that sees the former turning the latter loose to stir up trouble south of the border. Amid the fierce shootouts, the flaws in the story are all too apparent. 2018, 15, 122MIN

The Negotiator
This taut espionage thriller casts Mad Men's Jon Hamm as a burnt-out, boozy former US diplomat who reluctantly returns to 1982 Beirut to negotiate for the life of a kidnapped friend. The city is a tinderbox of vengeful factions and hidden agendas – can he pull off his fraught mission? With Rosamund Pike's cool-headed CIA agent on hand, the resulting intrigue is tense and atmospheric. 15, 109MIN

Ocean's Eight
Move over George Clooney, Brad Pitt, Matt Damon and company. This glossy distaff spin-off from the Ocean's series of all-star heist movies gives Sandra Bullock's all-female gang of crooks – Rihanna and Cate Blanchett among them – the chance to pull off a breezy crime caper. It's enormous fun as the team set out to steal a $150million necklace from New York City's annual Met Gala. 12, 110MIN

PREMIERE (Available from Mon)
See review, above. 15, 122MIN

Solo: A Star Wars Story
Find out what space pirate Han Solo got up to in his early days in this rollicking Star Wars spin-off. Alden Ehrenreich plays the younger version of Harrison Ford's iconic character, 10 years before he met Luke Skywalker and Princess Leia. We learn how Han met his co-pilot Chewbacca, and how he won the Millennium Falcon from galactic gambler Lando Calrissian (Donald Glover) in a card game. 12, 135MIN

Swimming with Men
The Full Monty with swimming trunks, this feelgood comedy throws a bunch of familiar British character actors in at the deep end as members of an all-male synchronised swimming team. Rob Brydon, Jim Carter, Daniel Mays, Rupert Graves and Thomas Turgoose have plenty of buoyant charm, even if the film treads water a little too long. 12, 97MIN

Whitney
PREMIERE (Available from Mon)
Whitney Houston's glorious, octave-leaping voice rings out in this enthralling documentary from Touching the Void director Kevin Macdonald, which finds fresh insights – and one startling revelation – as it relates the story of the singer's life and career. The film chronicles Houston's rise to pop stardom, and doesn't pull any punches when it comes to her drug-fuelled decline and early death in 2012. 15, 111MIN

World Gymnastics Championships

British gymnast Dom Cunningham talks gold medals, power naps and becoming a stuntman

LIVE GYMNASTICS

From Monday, BBC2 HD

Britain's gymnasts go for gold at this week's world championships held in Qatar, looking to improve on their two-medal haul last year when Max Whitlock won the pommel and Claudia Fragapane took floor bronze.

Fragapane misses out this time due to injury, but our women's team welcomes back former European all-around champion Ellie Downie, who'll compete for the first time in 18 months following ankle surgery. Meanwhile, the men's team includes double Olympic champion Whitlock and Dom Cunningham, who won European floor gold in Glasgow in August.

We caught up with 23-year-old Cunningham to hear more...

England's Max Whitlock on the pommel horse

This is my first world championships... I don't get nervous. This is my third major championship of the year so I'm a bit tired as we've had no real downtime. We've been flat out.

Winning European gold in Glasgow was amazing... When I landed all my tumbles, I was thinking, 'Right, I'm in with a good shout.' It's so nice to have that title against my name. Now I want more.

Dom takes a position at No 10

I'll be up against Max Whitlock in the floor competition... He's the Olympic champion, and I've always looked up to him, but I've been beating him on the floor all year. We'll be supporting each other. As long as we are safe and can walk away after our routines, that's all that matters.

Injuries are an occupational hazard... When I was younger I used to do some crazy stuff. Now I'm older and wiser I know that one little injury could ruin my year. It's always in the back of my mind that I have to do sensible routines.

I'm very relaxed during competition... I always have a nap before my event. At the European championships, there's a picture of me fast asleep just before the floor exercise. Fifteen minutes later, I'd won the gold medal.

There's also a picture of me doing a handstand outside 10 Downing Street... It's pretty cool and went all over the news. My character is quite bubbly. I'm always doing backflips off pianos whenever I visit a school. I think it would be rude not to.

I'm a real adrenaline junkie... I've done some stupid things over the years, like dangling off a 200ft cliff. When I'm not competing I really like to mess around with cars. I'd love to become a movie stuntman after my gymnastics career is over. That would be amazing.

Carabao Cup

Tuesday & Wednesday, Sky Sports Football HD & Sky Sports Main Event HD, kick-offs 7.45pm

It's a week of reunions in the Carabao Cup. After his Derby County side knocked out Manchester United at Old Trafford in the last round, former Chelsea midfielder Frank Lampard is set for an emotional return to Stamford Bridge in Wednesday's fourth-round tie.

In this week's other live game, on Tuesday, League One's Burton Albion, the lowest-ranked team left in the competition, host Nottingham Forest in a tie that sees Burton boss Nigel Clough face his former club.

Jacksonville Jaguars v Philadelphia Eagles

Sunday, BBC2 HD & Sky Sports Action HD, kick-off 1.30pm

Philadelphia make their debut in the UK when they take on Jacksonville at Wembley Stadium. The Eagles won their first-ever Super Bowl in January, but have been inconsistent this season despite recently crushing New York Giants with an impressive display from quarterback Carson Wentz. However, Jacksonville have been equally erratic, with their fearsome defence looking decidedly toothless so far.

TV&Satellite Week went to press before last Sunday's US Grand Prix, but if Lewis Hamilton failed in his bid to capture a fifth world title in Austin, the Mercedes driver could now be in line to win the drivers' championship in Mexico. Hamilton won the race in 2016 after it returned to the F1 calendar in 2015 following a break of more than 20 years. It was won last year by Red Bull's Max Verstappen.

Gtech's first bagged vacuum cleaner

Some bagless vacuum cleaners can accumulate dust, requiring additional maintenance and frequent filter washing. The Gtech Pro's hygienic bags contain the dirt and debris for easy disposal, straight into the bin. The Gtech Pro comes with 2 hygienic bags.

Impressive performance & easy to use

The Gtech Pro has proven performance and is low maintenance and cordless. Specially designed for floor to ceiling cleaning, the Pro vacuum features a full set of attachments, with the flexibility to glide effortlessly from carpet to hard floors without having to change settings.

Why choose a bagged vacuum cleaner?

Bagged vacuum cleaners are designed for convenient cleaning. Disposing of the dust and debris collected from around your home is effortless and hygienic; bags can be easily removed and replaced without handling the dust. What's more, bagged vacuum cleaners usually hold more dirt compared to their similarly sized bagless counterparts, so they don't need to be changed as often.

Enhanced dirt capacity

If you're tired of constantly emptying your vacuum, you'll be amazed at how much mess you can fit into the bag. When you use the Gtech Pro, the layers of dust that accumulate inside the bag are continually pushed down by the air flowing through vacuum, compressing the dirt into a reduced volume.

FIRST LOOK

Cillian Murphy returns to the gangster drama as Tommy Shelby enters the political arena

Peaky Blinders

Could Tommy Shelby be riding into danger in this shot from the fifth series of Peaky Blinders, filming now in Manchester?

The new run of the period gangster drama, which is moving to BBC1 from BBC2 and airing next year, is set against the turbulent backdrop of the 1929 financial crisis.

It sees Cillian Murphy reprise his role as Tommy, who is now an MP and faces a stark dilemma when a politician comes to him with an ambitious vision for Britain that could impact on his family and the entire country…

Helen McCrory and Paul Anderson both reprise their roles as Tommy's Aunt Polly and brother Arthur, while Sophie Rundle also returns as his sister Ada, along with Aidan Gillen and Jack Rowan as the gypsies Aberama and Bonnie Gold.

'Tommy Shelby faces his darkest ever force,' says Peaky Blinders creator Steven Knight.

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Helen Hunt

The Oscar winner heads the cast of BBC1's World on Fire, a World War Two drama that follows the war's first year through the eyes of ordinary people in Europe and the USA. Lesley Manville co-stars.

Greg Davies

The comedian will host this year's Royal Variety Performance from the London Palladium. The entertainment extravaganza will air on ITV and feature acts like Take That and the West End cast of Hamilton.

Rob Lowe

The actor will star in ITV crime drama Wild Bill as US cop Bill Hixon, who moves to the UK to become a chief constable in East Lincolnshire. The six-parter begins filming in November.

Coming Back

Anna Friel will return as troubled detective Marcella Backland in a third eight-part run of ITV crime drama Marcella, which will explore more of her disturbed psyche as she heads undercover.

IN PRODUCTION...

Zog

Here's an early look at Zog, BBC1's adaptation of Julia Donaldson's children's book, airing this Christmas. Lenny Henry narrates the tale of accident-prone young dragon Zog (Hugh Skinner), who is learning his craft at Dragon School. Can he fulfil his challenge of capturing a princess?

'The story has a lovely lyricism and it's been good fun seeing the beautiful animation come together,' says Henry. 'It's silly, outrageous and surreal!'

HAND-ENAMELLED
Union Jack design
on the front plaque

They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old:
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning,
We will remember them.

Laurence Binyon

This year marks the centenary of the First World War – a war that was to become the first global conflict in history, touching people from every nation for decades to come...

Now, on the landmark centenary occasion of this Great War, a prestigious commemorative edition proves a striking tribute to the courageous heroes who sought to defend liberty itself. Honour the memories of our soldiers with the 100th Anniversary WWI Commemorative Men's Wristband – exclusive to The Bradford Exchange and officially endorsed by the Lest We Forget Association.

Showcasing genuine leather and hand-enamelling

Meticulously designed and crafted by hand, this market-first men's edition showcases a double band of plaited brown genuine leather. Also depicted is an etched silhouette of a soldier besides a war grave with his head bowed in remembrance, in addition to the inscriptions; 'Lest We Forget', 'Never Forgotten' and '1914 – 1918'. For the perfect finishing touch, a gleaming disc reminiscent of a WWI army dogtag etched with a centenary comemmorative suspended from the secure clasp.
